Lesson 2

Reading

- 1 Read about Ismailia and put the photos in the correct order.

Remember!

I am Sherif and I live in Ismailia, which is between Port Said and Suez. The Suez Canal runs through the city before it reaches the sea.

Ismailia is beautiful. There are attractive buildings, interesting monuments and lots of gardens. Around 350,000 people live here, but since traffic is slow, there isn't much pollution.

Ismailia is peaceful, but it isn't boring. There are lots of things to do here, especially at the weekends. On Friday afternoons, I often go to Lake Timsah, which is near the city, with my family. It's a beautiful lake with beaches around it.

On Saturday mornings, I have tennis lessons at the sports centre at 9 a.m. Sometimes I go swimming at the afternoon with my friend, Sayed.

There are some interesting museums in Ismailia. My favourite is the Natural Science Museum because I'm interested in animals. It's a good place to go at the weekend.

- 2 Read the text again and complete the fact file about Ismailia.

| Fact File | Ismailia |
|----------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| Where: | 1 between Port Said and Suez |
| What it looks like: | 2 attractive buildings |

It's open every day from eight o'clock in the morning to five or six o'clock in the afternoon. To visit, you can go by ferry or even by felucca.

Another place to visit in Aswan is the Nubian Museum. It is between Al Fanadek Street and El Sadat Road. Some visitors to Aswan take a taxi to visit the museum.

You can visit the museum every day. It opens in the morning at nine o'clock and it closes at one o'clock for lunch. It opens again at five o'clock until nine or ten o'clock in the evening.

People come here to learn all about the life, culture and history of the people in Nubia.

After they visit the museum, some people take a boat to visit a real Nubian village near Aswan. What can people see and do in your town or city? Are there any botanical gardens or other interesting places to visit?

- Students choose the correct words and then compare answers in pairs. If some students have different answers to their partner, tell them to read the text again.
- Check answers round the class by inviting different students to each say a completed sentence.
- You could extend this task by asking students to re-read the text and identify examples of the past simple tense (e.g. When he finished university, he got a job with a big company in Cairo; Last year, he went to Nigeria and Brazil) and examples of the present perfect tense (He has travelled to lots of interesting places; He's worked there for three years now). Then elicit that the sentences with the past simple tense refer to completed events in the past and the sentences with the present perfect tense refer to situations or experiences without a specific time reference or that have not finished.

Answers:

- | | |
|--------------------|-----------------------|
| 1 university | 2 three years ago |
| 3 a team of people | 4 different companies |
| 5 travels to | |

Language

4 Complete the sentences with the present perfect or past simple form of the verb in brackets.

- Direct students to the instruction and the sentences they have to complete.
- If you think students need more support with reviewing this language point, you could go through the sentences in class. Elicit that the time phrase in sentence 1 (last week) tells you to use the past simple tense and the time phrase in sentence 3 (since she left school) tells you to use the present perfect tense.
- Students complete the sentences with the correct verb forms and then check their answers in pairs.
- Confirm the correct answers in class.

Answers:

- | | | |
|------------|----------------|------------|
| 1 passed | 2 have visited | 3 wanted |
| 4 finished | 5 has worked | 6 has read |

Writing

5 Write about someone in your family with an interesting job. Answer these questions.

- Ask students to choose someone in their family to write about. Make sure students are aware that this person doesn't have to do an extremely exciting job. The most important thing is that students find the job interesting and that they can describe it clearly and accurately.
- If students are doing this task for homework, they could interview a family member about their job or find information about it online.
- Tell students to use their existing knowledge of their family members' jobs and any other information they've found out to plan their texts. Encourage them to look up any words they need in a dictionary, if necessary.
- Monitor students' writing, offering help and feedback where necessary. Then ask students to exchange and check their texts with a partner. Alternatively, take in their work to mark.

4 Imagine that you do one of the jobs from the lesson. Write sentences in your notebook saying what you have done in your job, or what you did on a recent day.

Language

1 Complete the sentences with the past simple or present perfect form of the verbs in brackets.

- Direct students to complete the sentences individually.

|-------------|--------------|---------------|
| 1 helped | 2 have asked | 3 have worked |
| 4 travelled | 5 have used | 6 built |

2 Now match sentences 1-6 from Exercise 1 with these jobs.

- Tell students to re-read the sentences from Exercise 1 and identify the key words and phrases in each one (e.g. don't get paid, help people, disabled children in sentence 1). They can then use these key words to match the sentences with the jobs.

- 2 Direct students to complete the task individually.
- 3 Ask students to check their answers in pairs. Stronger students could also tell their partners what information in the sentences from Exercise 1 gave them the answers.

Answers: _____

- 3 We often add -ian or -ist to make the names of jobs. Complete the sentences with the correct jobs.
- 1 Direct students to the instruction and ask students if they can remember an example of a job that ends in -ian and a job that ends in -ist from Lesson 1 in the Student's Book (-ian = mathematician; -ist = scientist).
- 2 Ask students to write the correct names of the jobs.
- 3 Check answers round the class. If you notice any pronunciation errors while checking answers, model and drill the pronunciation of the names of jobs in class and individually.

Answers: _____

1 mathematician 2 scientist

Writing

- 4 Imagine that you do one of the jobs from the lesson. Write sentences in your notebook saying what you have done in your job, or what you did on a recent day.
- 1 Ask students to choose a job to write about.
- 2 Tell students to use both the past simple and present perfect tense in their sentences. If students are writing about what they did on a recent day, they will mainly need to use the past simple, but they could also bring in the present perfect by saying how long they have done a specific activity, for example.
- 3 Students could complete this task for homework. If they complete it in class, go round and monitor while they are writing. Make sure they use the correct vocabulary for work activities and use the past simple and present perfect correctly.

- Check students understand the meaning of challenge (a fact or situation which makes it more difficult for someone to do something) and achieve (to do something that you wanted to do) in class.

- Put students into pairs and ask them to brainstorm their ideas for the answers to the two questions. Encourage them to refer back to the text to find facts which provide evidence to support their ideas.
- Ask students to use their ideas to decide on their answers to the questions in their pairs.
- Invite a few different pairs of students to present their answers and give reasons for them in the class.

Suggested answers:

- 1 Direct students to the instructions and the example.
- 2 Tell students to use the four topics in the notes in Exercise 6 to organise their texts. Also, remind them to think about which tenses they will need to use for different events and situations in Magdy's life, i.e. the past simple for what happened at school, after school and university; the present simple for what he does now and the present perfect to make general statements about what has happened in Magdy's life or what he has achieved up to now.

Life Skills

- 1 This box helps students develop the life skill of showing respect for diversity. It is important for students to develop this life skill because it will help them to develop empathy for other people, particularly people who are different to them. Put students into small groups and ask them to read the questions carefully.
- 2 Ask them to brainstorm their ideas in their groups and then select what they think are the best ideas from their group.
- 3 Students could present their ideas in class, for example by creating a poster which explains them using pictures and text, and then presenting this poster in class.

Suggested answers: _____

- 1 Many schools, universities and work places do not have good access or equipment for disabled people
- 2 We can allow them equal opportunities, by providing them with help and support so that they can work as well as other people

Video

- 1 Tell students that they are going to watch a video about space. Ask students to write down the words they expect to hear in a video about space. They could then compare and discuss their ideas with a partner.
- 2 Before they watch, you could write the following questions on the board: Who was the first person to go into space? Who was the first man on the moon? What is the International Space Station? What do the people who work on it do? What did the Ancient Egyptians discover? What does the Egyptian Space Agency in Cairo plan to do in the future?
- 3 Play the video so students can check their answers.
- 4 Put students into pairs and ask them to say what information in the video they already knew and what was new for them. They could then discuss what activities or tasks they think astronauts have to do and what challenges they face in their jobs. Finally, they say whether they would enjoy being an astronaut when they're older.

Audioscript

Have you ever looked at the sky at night? You have probably seen the moon, planets and stars in space.

People have already visited space many times. A Russian astronaut, Yuri Gagarin, went in 1961. And in 1969, an American astronaut called Neil Armstrong was the first man on the moon.

Today, there are astronauts on a satellite called the International Space Station. This flies around our planet every 90 minutes. The astronauts on the space station do scientific experiments to study space. They usually stay on the Space Station for about six months. And they even do exercises for two hours every day to keep fit.

Space has interested Egyptians for thousands of years. The Ancient Egyptians were the first civilization to study the stars and the planets, and they made some important discoveries.

They first discovered the equinox. This happens in March and September every year and it is when the position of the sun in the sky means that the day and the night are the same length.

We are still making important discoveries today. At the Egyptian Space Agency in Cairo, engineers from the agency and students from Cairo University have already built satellites. They now want to send an Egyptian astronaut to explore space. Nobody from Egypt has visited space yet, but they will in the future.

1 Read Judy's biography of her friend Aya. Tick the things Aya has done in her life.

My friend Aya has always loved writing stories and poems. When she was 10, she wrote a poem for a competition and she has already written a book of stories. Now she's writing her second book. But she hasn't finished it yet. She says she will be creative when she plays the guitar for three years now. She's played in two concerts already. She felt very nervous but she was amazing. Aya would like to volunteer in a charity shop and create an app to help children learn. She hasn't been to another country yet, but there are lots of places to visit. Maybe we can go traveling together.

Reading

1 Read Judy's biography of her friend Aya. Tick the things Aya has done in her life.

- 1 Direct students to the instructions and elicit the meaning of biography (a text describing someone's life). Ask students if they've ever written or read a biography and, if they have, ask them to say what information about the person was included in it.
- 2 Direct students to the answer options and elicit or explain the meaning of create (to make something new) and app (a software program that's designed to do a specific thing; short for application). If students are still unsure about the meaning of these words, they can check them in the Glossary or in a dictionary.
- 3 Ask students to read the biography once all the way through to get a general understanding of it and then read it again to complete the task.
- 4 Put students into pairs to compare their answers.

Answers:

- 1 [tick], 2 [tick], 6 [tick], 7 [tick]

2 Match to make sentences about Aya.

- 1 Direct students to the sentence beginnings. Ask students to use the last word or the verb tense in each of these to predict the type of word that will come at the start of the sentence half that it matches with. For example, you would expect a time phrase with when to follow the first sentence half.
- 2 Ask students to match the sentence halves. They can refer back to the information in the biography to check their answers.
- 3 Check answers round the class by inviting different students to say the complete sentences.

Answers:

- 1 e 2 f 3 b 4 a 5 c 6 d

Language

1 Reorder the words to make sentences or questions in the present perfect.

- 1 finished / I / my / homework / yet / haven't / I haven't finished my homework yet
- 2 that / I've / already / I'm / seen
- 3 our / eaten / already / We've / lunch
- 4 already / three / I've / learned / languages
- 5 visited / Have / Pyramids / yet / they / the / ?
- 6 new / Have / the / yet / been / you / to / restaurant / ?

The present perfect with yet and already

Yet means 'at any time until now' 'the' 'at the end of' negative sentences and questions. She hasn't been to another country yet. Has she learnt a musical instrument yet? Already means 'before now' or 'before a particular time'. I've already finished the end of the sentence or before the main verb. She's played in two concerts already. She has already written a book of stories.

Listening

- 1 Listen to the interview. What has Haythem created? What does it do?
- 2 Listen again. Complete the sentences with the correct form of the present perfect and already or yet.

- 2 People in a few schools / use the app.
- 3 Haythem / create many other apps.
- 4 He / get the job.

- 1 Which of these things have you done already?
- 2 Which of these things haven't you done yet (but think that you will one day)?

Language

3 Reorder the words to make sentences or questions in the present perfect.

- 1 Tell students that they're now going to practise making present perfect sentences with already and yet. Explain that we use yet to refer to actions that we expect to happen soon. Yet in this context is only used in negative sentences and questions. Already refers to actions that have happened to an unspecified time before now.

- 2 Ask students to find sentences with already and sentences with yet in the biography text to remind themselves of how they are used.
- 3 Ask students to read the Language box and answer any questions.
- 4 Tell students to make the sentences and questions. They can refer back to the Language box to check they've written them correctly if necessary.
- 5 Check answers in class by inviting different students to read the sentences and questions out loud. Remind students that there are two possible ways of forming the sentences with already.

Answers:

- 1 I haven't finished my homework yet.
- 2 I've already seen that film. / I've seen that film already.
- 3 We've already eaten our lunch. / We've eaten our lunch already.
- 4 He's already learnt three languages. / He's learnt three languages already.
- 5 Have they visited the Pyramids yet?
- 6 Have you been to the new restaurant yet?

Listening

4 Listen to the interview. What has Haytham created? What does it do?

- 1 Direct students to the instruction and elicit the meaning of create.
- 2 Before they listen, direct students to the photograph of Haytham with his phone and ask them to predict what he has created based on what they can see here.
- 3 Play the recording and ask students to listen for the answers to the questions.
- 4 Ask students to compare their answers in pairs.

Audioscript

Interviewer: So Haytham, you are only 18 years old and you have already created an app, is that right?

Haytham: Yes! I created an app last year.

Interviewer: What does your app do?

Haytham: It's an app to help people organise their schoolwork and homework. I needed all my work and timetables to be in the same place so I made it to help me! Then my friends liked it too so I decided to let other people use it, too!

Interviewer: That sounds great! When can we use it?

Haytham: People have used it in a few schools so you can use it now.

Interviewer: Have you created any other apps yet?

Haytham: No, I haven't yet, but I have lots of ideas!

Interviewer: Have you got a job at a big technology company yet?!

Haytham: No, not yet! I have already talked to some about my ideas but I haven't finished school yet and I want to go to University too.

Answers:

He has created an app. It is for organising school work and timetables.

Student B needs to prepare a response to good news and also decide which phrases from Exercise 4 they are going to use.
- 3 Go round and monitor as students are talking but do not interrupt unless necessary. Make a note of any common errors and go over these at the end of the task.

Writing

- 4 Use the information in the fact file from Exercise 3 to write a biography of this person.
- 1 Ask students to use the information they collected in Exercise 3 to write a biography of the person they chose.
- 2 Remind students to use the phrases for saying when things happened (e.g. then, after that, still, later) which they've learnt from the biography.
- 3 Students should plan and write the biographies individually. Point out that biographies should only include facts, not opinions.
- 4 When students have finished writing, they could swap texts with a partner who should give honest feedback on the work.
- 5 Students can then ask their partners one or more questions about their chosen famous person. Alternatively, you could ask students to put their texts up on the wall or on desks in the classroom. They can then walk round the classroom, reading as many texts as they can in 10 minutes. After that, you could ask students to say the information they learnt about from the different biographies in class.

Skills

Writing:

- To make a fact file about a young role model
- To write a biography about a famous person (Workbook)

- To review and practise the vocabulary and structures of the unit
- To participate in shared research and writing projects

Before using the book:

- Write Young role models on the board. Ask students to look back through this unit and name the role models they've read or found information about (e.g. Samar Abdelfattah, Magdy Abdel Sayed, etc.). Ask students to consider what all of these role models have in common with each other. You could put them into pairs or small groups to brainstorm ideas for this. Then ask students to share their ideas in class and write these up on the board. Possible ideas include: worked hard to achieve things; faced challenges but kept going; tried to help other people; showed young people they could achieve their dreams; achieved something that not many people can achieve, etc.
- Tell students that they are now going to complete the review section for this unit to review the language they have learnt.

Student A: Pretend you do one of the jobs from the list. Tell Student B what you have done but do not name the job.

Student B: Guess your partner's job.

1 Which of these things have you already done today?

2 Which haven't you done yet?

Fares: Guess what? I have good news!
Mazen: What is it?
Fares: I have got a scholarship to a university in Canada!
Mazen: Well done! That's incredible.

Mazen: I'm really happy for you. You will play at an important tournament soon!

Project

1 What is your role model? Think of a famous person, a celebrity, a hero. Why are they role models? Make notes.

2 Work in small groups. Compare the information you found and choose one of the people for your project.

3 Work together to research more information about this person's life.

4 Make a fact file about this person for your classroom. You might include:

- pictures of the person
- a timeline of their life
- what they have achieved
- why you think they are a role model

5 Compare your fact file with other groups. Do you think they are all good role models?

Review

- 1 Work in pairs. Take turns to be A and B.
- 1 In this exercise, students review vocabulary and language for talking about jobs.
- 2 Put students into pairs. Ask them to decide who will be Student A and Student B for the first role-play.
- 3 Ask each student to choose two jobs, but remind them not to tell their partner what they've chosen.
- 4 Tell students to think of a sentence to describe each of their jobs individually, using the present perfect where possible. They can use the example sentence in the speech bubble to help them do this.
- 5 Students then take it in turns to say their sentences and guess the jobs. If students realise that they've both chosen the same job, ask one or both of the students to come up with a sentence for another job.

- 2 If students need to review language for responding to good news, they could look at the phrases they completed in Exercise 4 on page 51 of the Student's Book.
- 3 Students should complete the dialogue individually.
- 4 Play the recording so that students can check their answers. With weaker students, you could pause the recording at the end of each line of the dialogue to make this easier.

- 2 Go through the instructions in class. Make sure students are aware that they first have to think of and make notes on some famous young role models individually and then they will work in small groups to choose one person.
- 3 Students can use library and online resources to find out more information about their chosen person and find photos of him/her which they can use. If it isn't possible for students to find and use photographs of the person, they could draw pictures of them. Available time and resources may make it possible for students to do this in class, but otherwise they could work on it together outside of class.
- 4 Ask students to share their fact files, either by presenting them in class or sharing them with other students on a blog or email. Encourage other students to respond to the other groups' fact files, either by asking questions in class or leaving a comment on a blog, Word document, etc.

Videoscript

Social media is very popular in Egypt. Almost 50 million people in the country often use it. They spend three hours a day on average to connect with their friends, watch videos and share photographs. People often communicate with each other in both Arabic and English on social media.

But do you know how people communicated with each other in the past? They weren't able to send messages or videos on their smartphones and they couldn't look at each other's photographs on social media.

Important events in ancient Egypt were recorded using a form of writing called hieroglyphics. But there were also people called 'scribes' who used an easier form of hieroglyphics called hieratic to record what was happening every day. Scribes were important people and they recorded the laws, the food that farmers grew, and the amount of money people gave to the pharaohs every year.

Because many people weren't able to write, they had to ask scribes to write letters and messages to send to their friends and family. In fact, we know a lot about Ancient Egypt today because of the work of these scribes. Maybe in the future, people will know about Egypt today because of all the social media messages.

Lesson 2

Reading

1 Read the texts quickly and answer the questions. Use your dictionary for difficult words.

- What kind of texts are they?
- Where do you think that you would find these kinds of texts?

Teen problems

1 Nobody knows that I failed my English speaking test and I feel very embarrassed about it. Yesterday I told my best friend and I said, "Please don't tell anyone because nobody knows. It's a secret." The next day my friend's mother, who is British, offered to help me with my English... oh, very unhappy with my friend because she told somebody. She said she was only trying to help me, but I don't want to tell her any of my secrets any more.

Magda

2 I have a lot of friends, but we have very different opinions about things. They say I shouldn't talk to some people in the class. We don't always agree and feel that we are very different from them. It makes me feel lonely.

Salma

3 My parents want me to be a doctor when I finish school. A doctor has to be good at science subjects, however and the work is so difficult for me. I don't want to disappoint them, but I really don't think I can be a doctor.

Adam

2 Read the texts again and answer the questions.

- What problem was Magda embarrassed about? She failed her English speaking test.
- Why is she unhappy with her friend?
- How is Magda going to change her behaviour with her friend now?
- Why does Salma think her friends are different to her?
- How does Adam feel about science subjects?
- Why is he anxious about what his parents will think?

Speaking

3 Discuss the questions in pairs.

- Do you think that it was wrong for Magda's friend to tell her mother about Magda's problem? Why?
- Do you think that you can feel lonely even if you have a lot of friends? Why?

- 1 Read and match these answers a-c to the people who have the problems in Exercise 1. Do you think this is good advice? Why?

- a You should talk to them and let them know how you feel. They might be more understanding than you think.
- b Your friends shouldn't tell anyone your secret. Friends must keep secrets. However, you don't have to tell this as a negative thing and the girl wanted to help. Why don't you think about your friend's mother's kind offer?
- c How about joining a club to meet people with similar interests? You don't have to belong to only one group of friends.

Language

Remember!

- Use must to talk about things that are necessary, and mustn't for things that are necessary to avoid.
Friends must keep secrets. I mustn't talk to some people in the class.
- Use have to when something is essential to do (you have no choice) and don't have to when it isn't.
I have to tell my mother. I don't have to tell her.
- Use should / shouldn't for advice or to talk about things that are or are not a good idea to do.
You should talk to them. People shouldn't tell others this sort of information.
- Use might to say that something is possible or uncertain.
They might be more understanding than you think. I might go to the stadium, but I'm unsure.

Writing

- 2 Read the problem and then write your advice in your notebook. Use some of the verbs from the Remember! box.

- 1 What negative experience does it describe?
- 2 What message does Hussein want to share with the readers?

I always wanted to be part of a mean group of popular students. One day they suggested I write a cyberbully post in my class. I did Eyal, so I wrote an unkind comment about him on social media.

I thought that my friends would think it was funny. I didn't realize that they were joking, and I was the one who had to apologize to him.

Eyal read my comment and the next day he didn't want to come to school. I had to tell my parents, and they couldn't understand why I did it. Then the other students did not want to include me in their group. I am so embarrassed about what I did.

However, I hope my experience will have a positive result, too. I didn't have to do what my friends suggested. You should think before you do something. Some online messages can hurt people very badly.

I was able to say sorry to Eyal the next day. He is very kind and now we are friends. So, you should choose your friends carefully and always be kind to people.

mindfulness (noun) being able to calm by calmly thinking about your feelings and what is around you at the moment

2 Read the text and check your answers to Exercise 1. Use your dictionary for difficult words.

THE DAILY NEWS

As part of a plan to improve students' mental health, more than 100 schools in the UK recently introduced mindfulness as part of the timetable. In a mindfulness class, students learn to breathe slowly and to only think of the present. It isn't easy.

We usually think about things we have done in the past or things we have to do in the future. However, trying to think only about the present helps us to relax and to really think deeply about everything we are doing at the moment. This helps to stop us from feeling stressed or worried about things we have done or have to do. Sometimes that mindfulness helps them to feel better about themselves, and afterwards they do better in their school work too.

It helps me to understand my feelings, and try to turn them into something positive. Mindfulness is about being kind to yourself, and kind to other people too.*

Girl 1: In the class, you have to close your eyes, breathe in, count to 5, then breathe out slowly. Breathing like this makes you feel calm.

Boy 2: In the class, we try not to think about all our problems, we should only think about the things that are around us. Think about the present only, what's happening right now. The reason for this is – we can't change the future or the past, we can only do something about the present.

3 Read about Taha. Why does he feel lonely and worried?

Taha's friends all live near to their school. When they have finished their homework, the friends all meet up to play in the park. Sometimes, they help each other with their school work, too.

Taha lives a long way from the school. It takes an hour for him to get home to his small village. He does not have a father and he is worried because his mother is ill. So when he gets home, he has to look after his younger brothers and sisters. He does not have much time to do his school work.

Hi friends, a ☐ So, first of all, it would be a good idea to talk to Dalia. She must tell us her feelings. Then we will know how best to support her.

b ☐ Finally, I think we should tell her that we are proud to have her as a friend. We should help her with her school work and also take her to the cinema to relax after school. This will make her feel better. Do you all agree? Email and let me know.

c ☒ I want to write about Dalia. I will start by saying we must do something. If we do nothing, Dalia will continue to feel lonely and upset. This will not help her.

d ☐ Secondly, why don't we talk to her teacher? I think it will be difficult to talk to her parents, but the teacher can tell them that Dalia is worried about her brother. I think she might help.

Remember, Riham
